WHEREAS, We are approaching more closely the age-old ideal of a single, harmonious family of man, as we come closer to the goal of a lasting peace in the world; and,

WHEREAS, In working toward that goal we must not forget that the basic family circle is our starting point; and,

WHEREAS, No other institution can ever give the same meaning to human life and a stable structure to society as does the family unit; and,

WHEREAS, Modern day pressures are challenging American families, but there are those families in every American community who have met this challenge and made it a time of glory; and,

WHEREAS, It is fitting that we recognize and honor the family unit with appropriate ceremonies and activities:
